JAAL YANTRA TEXTILES

We bring the makers out of the back room.

The people who make a cloth or a garment are usually lost somewhere between the workshop and the shop. Our work is to bring them out, so the person buying knows where it comes from and who made it.

We are a textile company from India and a member of the Handloom Export Promotion Council (HEPC). Melbourne is our first exhibition as members. It is not only weavers we work with, it is a network:

Weavers

Handloom cloth by the metre, from cotton and linen to wool, silk and Pashmina.

Designers

Who turn a brief, a sketch or a mood into a garment that can be made.

Tailors & stitching units

Many work on their own or in a small unit, cutting, stitching and finishing.

Collectives

Groups of artisans who make and sell together, like the ones in House of Hands.

Over time we have worked with each of them to build one streamlined way of sourcing, run on Luna, our production platform, where you can see who is doing what.

THE FIRST ARTISTS

The hands behind the cloth.

Kala cotton

Haresh ji · HR Handloom
Bhujodi, Kutch

Constant and persistent about keeping kala cotton alive, an old rain-fed cotton of Kutch.

Tangaliya

Mukesh Bhai Parmar · Tangaliya House
Surendranagar, Gujarat

The dotted Tangaliya weave, where each dot is a small twist of yarn worked into the warp by hand.

Pashmina

Mustaq · Unique Pashmina
Srinagar, Kashmir

Pashmina shawls and stoles, woven in Srinagar.

Handwoven wool

Azmat Handloom
Pulwama, Kashmir

Handwoven wool fabric, made on the loom by hand.

Linen, cotton & silk

GOF · Ghosh & Organic Fashionary
Murshidabad, West Bengal

Handloom linen, cotton and silk by the metre and as finished pieces. GOF also sells direct to customers made to order on their own Luna store, gof.asia.

Meet them at the stand

Fabrics and garments from these artists are on show in Melbourne.

NOT TIED TO ONE WORKSHOP

Choose more than one partner.

You are not limited to what one workshop can make. One order can be split by stage, each with its own partner, so it never rests on a single workshop. If one is busy or falls short, another can take that stage and the rest carries on. Pick the partners yourself, or tell us what you need and we help you choose.

How the hands exchange

Sent

The partner who finishes a stage sends the goods on with a booked, tracked courier.

Counted in

The next partner counts what arrived in their app. Only then is it received.

Paid

Each partner is paid for their own stage once it is recorded and approved.

Every hand-off is on record. If nobody on Luna makes what you need yet, we find weavers on the census map and bring them on board with their agreement.

Partners next to the weaving hubs

Bhujodi, Kutch	kala cotton	Surendranagar, Gujarat	Tangaliya weave
Balotara, Rajasthan	weaving in the desert	Srinagar & Pulwama	Pashmina and wool
Kullu, Himachal	wool weaving cluster	Dharamshala, Himachal	Sharlho, Tibetan collective; embroidery
Sagar, Madhya Pradesh	Shramdaan workshop	Murshidabad & Phulia	linen, cotton, silk, Jamdani
Bhagalpur, Bihar	silk	Bhubaneswar, Odisha	silk, linen, hand painting

ARTISAN, NOT MASS MADE

Start with one piece, not a thousand.

If you are looking for the cheapest product, we are not the right place. We source and make artisan pieces, and each one carries its own story, so there is no minimum order. You can start with a single piece.

Price first
a quote before anything is booked

01 Send a brief

A sketch, a photo, a swatch or one line about what you want, and how many, even if it is one.

02 Pick the cloth and the makers

Fabric options with the name of who made each one. Choose the partners yourself or let us help you choose: one partner or several, a different one for each stage if you like.

03 Know the cost before you book

Customisation is part of the work: embroidery, construction and finish are written into the design. You get an estimate from real fabric prices with the making in it, as a quote link your buying team can accept. Nothing starts until you do.

04 Approve a sample, then follow it live

Every stage is a task in our partner app on the maker's phone, with photos as it goes. You follow the progress of your design and order live in your account.

05 Receive it with its story

Who wove it, who stitched it, which supplier the fabric came from, and the energy and water used to make it, where we measured it.

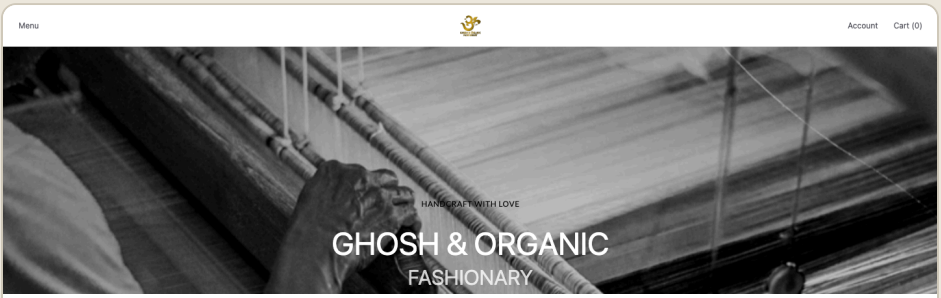

FROM THE LOOM TO THEIR OWN STORE

GOF, weavers with a shop of their own.

Ghosh & Organic Fashionary (GOF) is a handloom collective in Murshidabad, West Bengal. On Luna they run their own online store, gof.asia, and sell their cloth made to order, straight to the customer.

gof.asia · built and run on Luna

What they sell

Muslin, Bengal Jamdani, kala cotton, handwoven linen and cotton, handspun and mulberry silk, by the metre and in 12 m packs.

How an order runs

The customer pays on gof.asia, the order reaches GOF, they make it, book the courier from Luna and get paid.

> "The platform lets us sell directly to the customer with made-to-order, makes life easy."
> Founder, GOF

Your label, the same way

Designers and labels can do the same: design on Luna, have it made by our partners, and sell it from your own store on your own domain. 15 stores already run this way.

HOW A PRICE IS BUILT

A price you can predict, line by line.

Every quote is worked out from what the cloth and the making actually cost on real orders. Here is one, start to finish: a robe in GOF mulberry silk, made by Ksaman.

Fabric	3.1 m × ₹1,275 per metre, GOF's purchase price	A$59.49
Making	Ksaman's agreed price per robe, ₹1,000	A$15.05
Cost	₹4,952.50 at the day's rate, A$1 = ₹66.45	A$74.54
JYT	our standard 20%, shown on the quote	A$14.91
Your price	per robe, before tax and shipping	A$89.45

No guesses

If a cost is only a guess, Luna will not turn it into a quote. We price it properly first.

Today's rate

Converted at the live rate on the day. If the rate cannot be fetched, no quote goes out.

Every line shown

Fabric, making and our share are on the quote, and its prices are fixed when it is issued.

What pieces have cost on real orders

PIECE	FABRIC	MAKING	COST PER PIECE
Robe, kala cotton	3.1 m · A$13.30	A$15.05	A$28.35
Robe, handwoven linen	3.1 m · A$37.79	A$15.05	A$52.84
Robe, mulberry silk	3.1 m · A$59.49	A$15.05	A$74.54
Striped cotton top	1.75 m · A$6.49	A$12.79	A$19.28

Robes: fabric from GOF, Murshidabad, made by Ksaman, Bhubaneswar. Top: made by Sharlho, Dharamshala, where the 9-piece run used 3.3 kWh of electricity per piece. Costs before JYT's 20%, tax and shipping. Converted at A$1 = ₹66.45 (ECB reference rate, 21 October 2026); your quote uses the rate on the day it is made.

MELBOURNE · 17 TO 19 NOVEMBER 2026

Let's make something together.

Come and touch the cloth at the stand, or write to us. Tell us what you are looking for and we will tell you honestly who can make it.

Why it is safe to source with us

No single point of failure	Your order is split by stage across partners.
Price agreed first	You accept the quote before any work starts.
Quality checked	You approve the sample; finished work is reviewed before it is sent on.
Safe payments	Through Stripe and PayU. Partners are paid only for approved work.
Live progress	You follow every stage in your account as it happens.
Traceable to the hand	Each piece names its makers and fabric suppliers.

Every partner works in the Luna partner app

On Android and iPhone, partners accept work, start and finish each stage, upload photos and video, book courier pickups and see what they are owed.
